TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT SEEN BY LOCAL SAILOR

SENDS PART OF NC-3 WING OBTAINED

Vivid Account Given of Arrival of American

Dear Mr. Bryd:-

I had the honor of being present at the Azores during the recent transatlantic flight and managed to obtain some souvenirs. I am enclosing one for yourself which may interest you. It is a piece of the port wing of the Navy Curtis 3 (NC-3) which was torn considerably when she came down in the water 50 miles south of Peco, one of the Azores. The printing was done aboard this ship. We arrived at Ponta Delgada May 8th, at noon. The Rochester with Admiral Plunkett aboard was there ahead of us and so were a bunch of destroyers among them the O'Brien, Walnwright, Sampson, Wilkes, Cassin, Benham, and Wenslow which were at Queenstown with us some of the time.

In a few days the destroyers went out on the line and a couple stood by in readiness.

Word finally came that the planes had started from Newfoundland and we were in communication with the NC-4 when she had sighted the island of Flores. We expected her about 2:00 p. m. but none of the planes came that afternoon. It was quite disappointing of course but still we had hopes. It rained most of the afternoon and the natives stood on the beach the whole afternoon.

UNIQUE HOUSE AT OIL WELL.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Biggs, A. S. Swain and Billie Byrd with his dad and mother, paid a short visit to the Swan Lake oil well last Sunday afternoon, being in that neighborhood putting up Chautauqua signs and advertising the big show. The party found Mr. Howell, and his crew resting on that day and had time to devote to visitors. After viewing the rig at the well and examining the evidence of oil the party was escorted to the big sod house which Mr. Howell has recently put up for the accommodation of the concern. He has put up a one story structure 40x60 feet entirely of sod and will have it plastered with native plaster which he gets a short distance above Narrows. This will be a comfortable domicile for the people connected with the well with arrangements for all. Nice big dining room, kitchen, living rooms and sleeping apartments. It represents much labor but otherwise is a cheap dwelling.

The White Hussars at Chautauqua

Great Singing Band Comes on Fourth Day With Two Concerts

Life, action, volume—everything that goes to make popular musical programs of the highest type is to be found in the two concerts of the White Hussars on the fourth day of Chautauqua. These nine musical artists have established a genuine reputation in the Chautauqua field. For several years they have registered one of the biggest successes among musical companies on Eastern circuits. The White Hussars can best be described as a "singing band." Every member has a splendid voice, and their vocal numbers and choruses are rendered with life and dash and real artistry. On their band instruments they are genuine masters. Vocal and instrumental solos, duets, quartets and ensembles make up the particularly attractive musical entertainment of the two big programs.

Honor Guard Dance Will Be Open To Public Despite Rumor

Considerable misunderstanding seems to have arisen concerning the Honor Guard dance next Monday night, despite the publicity given that event in these columns. Members of the Honor Guard have been asked why the public was not to be admitted to the dance, as many friends and relatives of the service men would like to be present and dance with the veterans. It has been the intention of the Honor Guard from the beginning to make the affair public, and they say they cannot understand how the incorrect impression was spread.

To further correct any doubt in the matter, the committee has had some very striking posters printed, on which an invitation to everybody is extended. The dance is not to be private in any sense of the word, for it is realized that the soldiers and sailors are near and dear to a great many who are not members of the Guard. The item of expense would probably be a factor that would prohibit a private dance, and curtailing expenses would mean curtailing the enjoyment of the guests.

The banquet at the Odd Fellows hall before the dance is, however, for

Hawaiian Evening at Chautauqua

"Rambling Through Paradise," Travel Lecture by Mildred Leo Clemens

It is hard to imagine a program of greater charm than the one which will close Chautauqua this year—a Hawaiian evening. Mildred Leo Clemens, author and lecturer, cousin of Mark Twain, will present a travelogue, "Rambling Through Paradise," accompanied by wonderful dissolving views of the islands. The Royal Hawaiian Quintet will present a full concert of the enchanting melodies of their native land. This group of Hawaiian players and singers is one of the best brought into this country in many years, including among its members one of the greatest steel guitar players now in this country.

SUPREME COURT PASSES ON IRRIGATION DISTRICT

Circuit and County Courts

OPINION WRITTEN BY JUSTICE BEAN

Affidavit of Publication in Harney County
Tribune Not in Compliance with Statute.

On last Tuesday the Supreme Court handed down its opinion on the appeal of the William Hanley Company from the order of the County Court granting the petition, reversing Circuit Judge Biggs and the County Court on the question as to the sufficiency of the proof of publication.

The opinion, written by Justice Bean and concurred in by Justice Burnett, recites: "A reference to the affidavit for publication discloses that the same was made by the foreman of the 'Harney County Tribune' the weekly newspaper in which the notice was published. This is not a compliance with the section of the statute referred to. The further objection to the proof of publication is that the affidavit shows that the notice of petition was published 'once a week to a period of four weeks beginning on the 8th day of August, 1917'.

Oil Prospects More Encouraging Than Ever Before at Both Wells

A representative of The Times-Herald visited the Howell oil well at Swan Lake last Sunday and had the privilege of inspecting the work. It was his first visit to an oil well and therefore he is not competent to judge conclusively as to its production but he is convinced from what he observed that there is oil there, but as to the quantity or quality he is not going to commit himself. From conversation with men connected with the well, however, it was evident that they are confident of success and that they have an oil well.

The Times-Herald is not in a position to quote from those directly connected with this project. All it can say is that the indications are most encouraging. The drill was down 1143 feet on last Sunday and one man who is helping in the work stated that if water was found to have not penetrated the well it would not take long to tell definitely what they had. Evidently there was water in the hole as no report has reached us since indicating anything of a definite nature. Nevertheless we sincerely hope
